Henry Ford's Dearborn Independent and 3rd Party

Opinions on Senator La Follette By Detroit Man.

CLEAN BILL GIVEN

Says Mr. Ford "That True Third Party Is Operative Today and Its Leader Is Calvin Coolidge."

The last successful "third party" was the Republican party which at once became a major movement. All subsequent third party movements have failed of political success, either because they existed solely to forward an individual's ambitions, or because they were captured by the radical element. Yet a true and available third party has always existed within both the old parties; it consists of the "forward looking minds" sometimes called the Independent Vote, that is not obedient to party bosses but votes on principle. That true Third party is operative today, and its leader is Calvin Coolidge. The so-called "progressive movement," headed by La Follette and led by those radical elements which have always destroyed sanely progressive third party movements, does not include the great forward-looking independent vote of the nation, and will not be given that vote.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 30.—Rarely is the presidential election determined by the campaign. If it were, the political history of our country would not be what it is. The best campaigners have often-est defeated, for the reason for the reason that campaigning ability and executive ability are not necessarily the same. The best talkers in our history have proved the most ineffectual doers, and the most lavish makers of promises the least dependable performers thereof.

The choice of a president rarely depends on anything that may occur between the nominations and the elections. It is determined not by the public activity of a campaign period but by the whole tenor of the candidate's life and the constant quality of his service. So that, this being true, it is possible to say that the next President is already selected by the people; it only remains to cast and count the national vote.

There are, however, certain aspects of the present campaign which seem to call for interpretation. The appearance of a socalled Third Party has made clearer the movements of the mass of Independent Voters during recent years of national awakening. There has been no successful 'third party' since the origin of the Republican party. It may be inaccurate to speak of the "origin" of the Republican party, as if it were a political organization created for a specific purpose at a specific time, for this party was implicit in the politics of the nation from the beginning of the government. It was not created but evolved. Its germinal idea dates from the first constitution-convention. It was not hastily gathered together to boost an individual's candidacy, as were the Bull Moose party to return Theodore Roosevelt to office and the present misnamed "progressive" party to make Senator La Follette the doorway for alien ideas into government; the Republican party was the expression of a principle that had ripened for action over a long period and came to fruition more than 65 years ago. It remains the only third party in all that period that has been choesen by the people to administer the government of the United States, though curiously its status has never been that of a third party: it became a major movement from the first.

"A third party which had a strong influence on the nation was the prohibition party. Although never intrusted with the administration of government it represented an idea which penetrated the thought of Wife Slayer?

Alfred Madison, 24, killed his wife with a hammer and threw her body into a river, near Mesick, Mich., according to police. Then he went back to his home in Traverse City and began to woo a sweetheart, saying his wife had divorced him. When the woman's body was found, many weeks later, Madison confessed to the murder, officers say.

ROOSEVELT AND SMITH OUT FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Party Leaders Are Watching Contest With Interest.

ARE POPULAR MEN

Governor Smith Makes Makes His Campaign On His Record In Office and Roosevelt for Economy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—New York's gubernatorial campaign, which imparitial observers concede is the moost hotly contested in years, has attracted national attention because of the prominence of the two leading candidates — Governor Alfred E. Smith and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the navy.

Although the issues involved are mainly state ones, the campaign between one of the most popular men who ever sat in the governor's chair at Albany and the son of the former president has been closely watched by the Democratic and Republican national leaders.

Governor Smith, seeking a third term, has made his campaign solely on his record in office. When eliminated as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president he let it be known that he would not seek renomination for governor. He explained he had given many of his best years to the state and that he would welcome a respite from office. As the weeks sped by, however, the demands that he again head the state ticket became so insistent thta he finally yielded. When the Democratic state convention nassembled at Syracuse the governor was nominated by acclamation.

Colonel Roosevelt, known as "Young Teddy," whose name went before the Republican state convention at Rochester as one of several favorites for the nomination, emerged a victor on the first ballot, and thus after 26 years another Roosevelt is running for governor of New York.

He declared that the first great issue of the campaign was economy in administration The second, he said, was tax reduction, and the third "the practicable and unselfish reorganization of the state departments." In his speeches he has contended that the Republican party in the state and nation was more economical and more conductive to prosperity than its leading opponent. He charged that the consolidation of state departments as urged by Governor Smith, would bring important state functions under political control and under the hand of Tammany Hall. As to prohibition he arraigned the present state administration for repealing the state enforcement act, and promised to work for re-adoption of a state law in conformity with the Volstead act.

Governor Smith has maintained that his department consolidation scheme insofar as it has been put into effect by the joining of the highway department, the department of public works and the department of public works and the department of public buildings, has saved the state $800,000. Other consolidations, he has declared, he has declared, were prevented by a Republican Assembly, which also blocked his efforts for a "more business-like administration of the state's business affairs." He also has pointed out that the Democratic regime has reduced income and property taxes by 25 per cent.

The biographies of Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Smith have almost nothing in common. The governor, popularly known as "Al," was born 51 years ago on New York's lower East Side—he was literally raised on the sidewalks of New York. He left school when he was 13 years old to support his mother. Fighting against the heavy odds which are placed in the way of a boy who grows up in such surroundings, he has risen to the governorship and is known as "the champion vote getter of New York."

Colonel Roosevelt lives in Oyster Bay, his father's home. He is 37 years old, but does not look it. He holds a B. A. and an honorary M. A from Harvard, his father's alma mater. Like th efirst T. R., he earn

THREE ARE SHOT IN GREENUP CO. QUARREL

Farmer Dead—Young Man In Hospital — Negro In Jail.

LIQUOR QUARREL

Shooting Takes Place at Farmer's Home, Who Is Instantly Killed In Own Yard—Young Welsh Shot Nine Times.

ASHLAND, Oct. 28 (AP)—Billy Lambert, a middle aged farmer living near Naples, Greenup county, died today. Herbert Welsh, a young man, is in tse hospital here charged with the shooting of Lambert. Fred Rice, a negro about twenty is held in the Greenup county jail charged with complicity in the affair.

Lambert was shot four times and died instantly. Welsh has nine bullet holes in his body. Rice escaped with slight wounds. Welsh and Rice allege that they called Lambert out of the house last night, asking for Lambert's son when the latter opened fire.

The negro escaped through the door of the automobile as Lambert emptied his gun and walked away Welsh claims. Welsh then opened fire, discharging four shots he claims. Police believe the shooting was the outcome of a quarrel over liquor.

ANOTHER DEATH BY GAS POISON

Victims Become So Violent Thtat It Is Necessary to Put Them In Straight Jackets.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. (AP) — The death toll from gas poisoning of workers in the research laboratories in the Bayard New Jersey plait of the Sandard Oil company increased to four today, when William Kresge, 29, died after becoming so violent that he was placed in a straight jacket. Other victims died in the same manner.

GAS VICTIMS MOUNT TO 31

Three Last Cases Died Nearly at At the Same Hour On Successive Mornings.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP) — The fifth victim of mysterious gas poisoning in the research laboratory of the Standard Oil company died in the New Jersey hospital here today. Herbert Fuhon, 26 was the latest to succumb. He was placed in a straight jacket before his death. The last three victims died approximately at the same hour on successive mornings. Eleven additional men are suffering from strange poisoning were brot to the hospital last night, bringing the total number up to 31. Fuhon died after an antidote had been administered, whiesh physicians hoped would cure the illness.

GEORGE MORRIS REFUSES TO BE QUESTIONED

To Appear Before the Committee Only On Certain Conditions.

WANTS COMPANY

Says That the Representa- of Democratic and Independent Candidates Should Also Come.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—While Washington ended the senate campaign fund committee inquiring into Republican collections in the east today, acting chairman Caraway of New York announced the receipt of a telegram from George Morris, Republican state chairman of New York refusing to appear before the committee except on certain stipulations.

"I wish to state that the committee are not making stipulations or understandings with any witness" said senator Caraway. The witness may refuse to appear if he wished to take the consequences the senator added. The Morris telegram is understood to state that if he came, representatives of the democratic and independent candidates ought to come also. A second telegram asserted that Morris refused to come unless other representatives appeared at the same time according to Senator Caraway.

More Records are Broken Yesterday in Legion Vote

Miss Hurst In First Place; Miss Mattingly Now Third.

FIELD IS COVERED

About Everyone Benefited By Votes Yesterday — Merchants Call For More Ballots.

More records were smashed in yesterday's voting in the American Legion Popularity Contest and reached the second high place in single day's balloting when a total of almost ten thousand votes were cast. Interest grows day by day and it is almost a certainty that large blocks of votes are being held back. The voting of these large blocks may cause big upsets as the contests nears the end of the second week.

Miss Verdie Hurst still retains her hold on first place. Miss Hurt's friends balloted a total of 2740 votes yesterday and these votes brought Miss Hurt's total to 13,850. Miss Louise Carr, with a total of 11,150 votes is still in second place. The friends of Miss Mary Mattingly were very active yesterday and came forward with a block of 3,-455 votes for their favorite. This brings Miss Mattingly's total to 8,990 and as a result she goes into third place.

The voting yesterday was not limited to a few candidates, but covered practically the whole field of candidates. This is pleasing to Legion officials as it indicates the wide range of interest that the contest covers. Merchants advise that more and more people are calling for their votes and the contest idea is proving itself a fine business stimulant.

The week end prizes will be given this week as usual. The ballot box will be open until 10 p. m. Saturday night.

REPUBLICAN CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

La Follette Government Would Be One of Words.

VOTERS KNOW

La Follette's Efforts Now Directed to Throwing the Election of November 4th Into Cogress.

Special to the Daily News.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee issued the following statement in Chicago last night:

"Robert M. LaFollette is treating people of the United States to campaign promises. If he were elected — which is now an impossibility—there would follow a government of words. There is no danger of his becoming President of the United States. The voters would never permit that. They will also defeat his plan to throw election into congress. But that is not enough. In the interest of good government and continuation of our institutions, the socialist third party nominee should be administered severe a rebuke that no man will again come before the voters with a hodge-podge of socialism and pure bombast."

LaFollette rushed into this campaign on the theory that old parties are discredited and people are clamoring for new leadership. He modestly offered himself as one man truly representing popular ideals in a convention of hand picked delegates—chosen not by the people but by himself and his henchmen, and he handed them a platform. This platform is written by Mr. LaFollette himself. His hand-picked delegates gave it their approval, without changing a word and adjourned. Thus was born the socialist third party.

The LaFollette hand-made platform presented issues on which his party went before the electorate. No sooner had his platform been adopted than it became the center nation-wide disapproval.

"Today LaFollette is trying to forget his own platform. He wanted government ownership of railroads and other public utilities. The country quickly awakened to the fact that this program would saddle upon the American people a debt estimated by President Coolidge, at THIRTY-FIVE BILLION DOLLARS, or would be TEN BILLION DOLLARS MORE than the cost of the World War to us.

"The country, appreciating the President's efforts to cut down war debts and reduce taxation, did not respond to the idea of placing 2,-500,000 employes of these railroad corporations on government payrolls. They want to get away from bureaucracy. They do not want to build it up. Naturally La Follette now wants the public to forget about his program for public ownership. Further, he wanted to give congress right to override the Constitution. He wanted to make congress supreme. He wanted to destroy the Supreme Court, which is guarantee of the liberties vouchsafed by the Constituiton. He wanted to throw the Constitution into the discard. The people saw through that too.

"The people saw the possibility of an organized minority in control of congress, enforcing their will regardless of the Constitution and the courts. Again the people became aroused. Now LaFollette is quibbling and explaining his stand on the Constitution, but the American people are intelligent. They think for themselves. They know now that the socialist third party nominee is only temporizing.

"La Follette in recent speeches, has been telling his audiences that he expects to be elected. No one expects that—not even LaFollette himself. All he is trying to do is to retain a strangle hold on congress.

It is pertinent to ask what other LaFollette control through his minority bloc has accomplished. The farmers clamored for relief in the Prison Buglers Sound Mess Call In Hopes of Districting the Attention of Strikers, But They Drown Out Bugle.

MOUNDVILLE, West Virginia, Oct. 30. (AP)—Score of residents of Moundville were attracted to the gates of the state penitentiary here all last night and this morning by the cries from 900 prisoners who are on a bread and water diet. "Food food, when do we eat," the prisoners yelled all night long. Their commoontion penetrated far beyond the prison walls. Fourteen hundred convicts employed in the prison shops left their benches and refused to work Monday. Warden S. P. Smith ordered them confined in cells on a diet of bread and water. About 500 returned to work Tuesday. Prison buglers sounded the mess call today in hopes that the remaining 900 might change their minds but his notes were drowned out by the tremendous howl.

DEMOCRATS HEAD THE FALL BALLOT

Of Eleven Candidates for House—Three Democrats Are Sure of Their Jobs.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 30.—(AP).—Leading the six presidential tickets on Kentucky's general election ballot by virtue of its victory for Congress in 1920, the democratic party offers a complete presidential, vice-presidential, senatorial and congressional nomination for vote next Tuesday.

Headed by John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, presidential and vice-presidential nominees, the party has United States Senator A. C. Stanley, of Henderson, Ky., seeking re-election. The senior senator's record is a long one. He was born in Shelbyville, Ky., May 21, 1867, a state university graduate, elected to congress in 1920, serving in the 58th, 59th, 60th, 61st, 62d, and 63d congresses from the second district; elected governor; and the United States senate in November, 1918.

Of the eleven candidates for the house, three democrats are sure of sitting in the next congress. They are Congressman David H. Kinchelue; second district, and Congressman Ralph Gilbert, eighth district, and Virgil Chapman, Paris, seventh district, unopposed. Chapman will succeed Congressman Morris, democrat, who is not running for re-election.

The congressional nominees are Congressmen Barkley, Thomas Jr., Johnson, Rouse, and Vinson; Sam H. McMeekin, democrat, first district, seeking to unseat Congressman Thatcher, republican; Alex L. Ratliff, opposing Congressman Langley in the tenth district, and Nat B. Sewell, opposing Congressman Robston, republican, in the eleventh.

McMeekin's race, in Louisville has brought a statement from him against the Ku Klux Klan and challenge, unanswered, to Congressman Thatcher to express himself on the Klan.

Virgil Chapman will be one of the youngest men in the new congress and the youngest congressman ever to represent the famous old Ashland district, Henry Clay's home. He is 26.

The party in Kentucky has suffered but one defeat in a national election when twelve of its thirteen electoral votes were cast for McKinley in 1896, Frank K. Kavanaugh, veteran in the state library, recently found.

Death is beautiful. Harry Wright of Chicago says so. He and death got acquainted the other day when Wright pitched from the fifth floor of a skyscraper. SEATS ASSURED CONSERVATIVES

Conservative Party Won Three Hundred and Eight Seats In the General Election.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Conservative party won 308 seats in yesterday general election, insuring them a majority over all other parties in the new parliament it was announced shortly after three o'clock this afternoon. Prime minister Ramsay Mac Donald was re-elected to parliament. Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, in the Mac Donald cabinet retained his seat also. If results continue to follow the tendency showthrough out the early portion of the day, followers of the Conservative leaders and former premier Stanley Baldwin will have a heavy majority when parliament reconvenes November 18th.

The people of Great Britain have put a crushing end to their first experiment with labor government by returning the Conservative party to power in Parliament with one of the strongest majorities recorded during the last century. In a sweeping political change the Liberal party sunk to the weakest position it has experienced for more than 100 years.

Kiwanians Enjoy Weekly Dinner

The weekly dinner of the Middlesboro Kiwanis club was attended by 32 members. Dr. Crume was the principal speaker of the session. His topic was, "Playing The Man." He stated that the outstanding need of the hour was men of brains both in office and in the community. George Washington and Abraham Lincoln were pointed out as types to be desired and not the floss man such as Burr and Arnold. Dr. Crume complimented Middlesboro on its fine street building and he suggested that a tourist camp would add greatly to the popularity of the city.

Dr. O. O. Stone made a few remarks who were received hilariously by the club. Several songs were sung by the members included "Jada" "Li'l Liza Jane" and other peppy lays. Mr. James Chandler, was appointed chairman for next week.

Bowling Green Man Is Shot In Knee

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Oct. 30 (AP) —Claude Amos, 45, was shot through the knee today. Paul Blancy, 15, a neighbor is alleged to have done the shooting. It is asserted that he was walking out from his house to enter his father's automobile when Amos made an insulting gesture. Neighbors attracted by the cries of the wounded man rushed him to the house. He was later brought to Bowling Green for treatment.

MR. FORD AN DMR. LA FOLLETTE

No one will deny that Mr. Ford is a progressive. Last winter the so-called progressives of the Northwest were busy with a Ford boom for president. The boom promptly flattened out when the Michigan man came out with a flat endorsement of the present administration. Mr. Ford ran against Mr. Newberry in Michigan and this should be the warrant for the simon pureness of his progressiveness.

In this issue we print an exerpt from Mr. Ford's page in the Dearborn Independent. In it Mr. Ford says, "The true third party is operative today, and its leader is Calvin Coolidge. The so-called "progressive movement" headed by La-Follette and led by those radical elements which have always destroyed sanely progressive third party movements, does not include the great forward-looking independent vote of the nation, and will not be given that vote.

Mr. Ford is anything but a republican. He is also anything but a democrat. Withal he is an independent thinker and voter. The clean bill of health given the candidacy of Coolidge and Dawes by the Detroit man will go far towards clearing up any doubt of the viewpoint on the administration held by the truly progressive element in this country.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT the business of a city should be handled as carefully as that of any big business and in a common-sense way

That city building never succeeds without co-operation, the kind of co-operation that has for its goal increased prosperity and stability. Cities make progress through co-operation When they stand aloof it shows a civic cowardice on the part of many of its citizens.

THAT a city must have a healthy growth, for in this turmoil of modern business and develoment, a city must stand up under stress and disappointment, always going forward slowly and surely.

THAT those who enter into the fight to make a bigger, better, brighter and busier city, will discover that never before have they had presented to them a proposition of equal magnitude and attractiveness.

THAT all can materially benefit their home city and themselves if they begin right now to help to make the coming months ones of production and prosperity.

THAT it would be difficult to find one citizen who cannot in some manner help to increase the prosperity of all. Everyone can, without detriment, inconvenience or expense, at least remember that the home city is their city and act accordingly to the end that harmony and prosperity may be assured.

EVERY CITIZEN owes an obligation to the home city, and should not be allowed to pass up that obligation.

English Dictionary Soon To Be Issued

LONDON, Oct. 30—(AP).—The New English Dictionary, which has been in the course of compilation since 1857, probably will be published about the first of the new year, and it is claimed that it will be the largest and most authoritative exposition of the English language ever produced.

The dictionary is being compiled by the Oxford University press, and most of the work has been done under the supervision of Oxford University professors. All the sections of the dictionary have been completed, but the editors have been finding it necessary to make several additions and revisions, so changeable is the English of today.

82 Year Old Widow of Democrat Registers to Cast First Vote for Coolidge; Fears La Follette Menace

A wife, a mother and a grandmother of fighting men, Mrs. Joseph L. Little, though in her eighty-third year, has for the first time in a life given to implanting courage and fortitude in others, come out personally to demonstrate some of the fighting qualities with which she inspired one man and passed down by virtue of inheritance to two others.

Mrs. Little, pictured at the right a New York woman living at 487 Park Avenue, has become an active participant in the presidential campaign, having joined forces with the Coolidge-Dawes ticket and the Republican cause in general, because she says the country is faced with a real menace in the person of La Follette and what he stands for—a menace which, she says, should be set down by everyone privileged to vote.

When Mrs. Little casts her vote for President Coolidge on November 4 it will be her first appearance at the polls in her lifetime. She is the widow of a former Democratic Congressman from New York City, who also served for years as President of the Board of Education, and who fought in the Civil War. She is the mother of Colonel Arthur Little Commander of the 369th Infantry, Colonel Hayward's famous war regiment, in which Colonel Little served during the hostilities as a major. Her grandson also fought in the World War.

Mrs. Little when she was caught by the camera outside the registration booth, pointed out that although her husband was a prominent Democrat, she thought it advisable under existing political circumstances, for all Democrats to vote for President Coolidge in order to offset, for all time the La Follette Socialist Third Party movement.

"Like many other women I have never been active in politics," she explained. "I was opposed to the principle of women's suffrage and had never expected to be a voter, but when I realized the danger to our constitutional form of government by La Follette and his Socialist Third Party, and of the havoc which would result in the business world should the election be thrown into Congress, I felt it my patriotic duty to do what I could in this emergency. I am accordingly registering to keep President Coolidge in the White House.

"I feel that every other woman, no matter how old or how young, should do likewise. I am asking all my friends to perform what I consider a real service for the country by registering."

Miss Matilda Lawson, pictured with Mrs. Little is a cousin who accompanied her to the polls to register and who, herself, is more than eighty years old. She will also cast her first vote for President Coolidge.

"In order to avoid the danger of making an error in the marking of a split ticket," Mrs. Little added with emphasis, and also to emphasize my La Follette protest, I have decided to vote the straight Republican ticket, National and State which of course will include a vote for Mr. Roosevelt for Governor."

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Timothy V. O'Connor, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, former president and now honorary president of the International Longshoremen's Union and volunteer laborer in the G. O. P. presidential campaign, would fight at the drop of the hat if anybody insinuated he was a "Red."

Yet all persons present will take oath that O'Connor was the reddest individual in evidence at the hearing of the Borah campaign investigating committee, when O'Connor's intimation that Senator La Follette's campaign is being financed from Soviet Russia was inquired into.

As Samuel Untermeyer developed, under biting cross-questioning, that O'Connor had no knowledge of any Soviet funds delivered to the La Follette war chest but merely a "belief" that such was the case, without either evidence or proof in its support, O'Connor's ears became a pretty pink.

As Untermeyer and Senator Caraway then bared the details of the Labor Day visit of union representatives to the White House, for which O'Connor put up $358 to pay hotel and taxi bills, his normally florid face became a flaming red and his ears attained a vividly incendiary hue.

At that moment O'Connor became a red more dangerous to the peace of the committee than William Z. Foster or Benny Gitlow. Doubtless he would have given much to have been a mere longshoreman again, out on the docks with Untermeyer and Caraway, where he could have taken direct action.

But as chairman of the great and dignified shipping board he had to keep the peace. The only thing he could pound was the table, the only things he could hurt were words.

And even of these he couldn't use the rugged verbal brick-bats he would have preferred.

THE O'Connor utterance in which the committee was particularly interested was contained in a speech at Buffalo, N. Y. In that speech the shipping board chairman demanded:

"How much money has Soviet Russia sent into this country to help elect Senator La Follette?"

To the committee members the query was not a query, but was a rhetorical question intended to carry the distinct inference that Russia had helped finance the La Follette campaign.

But O'Connor disclaimed any attempt at rhetoric.

"I didn't say Rooshia had sent any money," he declared. "I asked a question? Read it for yourself. If that ain't a question, then what is it? But, I do believe Rooshia has supplied money for that campaign. Where else is all this La Follette money comin' from?"

As a politician O'Connor proved himself a first-class longshoreman when, in a heated denunciation of communists and socialists, he declared:

"They've nominated this here man Borah for president—ah—I mean Foster."

Senator Borah, chairman of the committee, joined in the general outburst of laughter, his enjoyment of the slip seeming about equal to O'Connor's discomfiture.

"You're always likely to find me mentioned in these discussions of Russia and the reds," Borah said as he finally rapped for order.

Probably it was the cold, level-voiced, drawling, suave, but sarcastic questioning of Untermeyer that caused the witness to "see red."

Untermeyer took evident pleasure in trapping him in verbal entanglements. The hotter O'Connor became the icier and more calculating grew Untermeyer.

When O'Connor finished, Untermeyer bitched across the table at him like a satisfied cat, who has just swallowed the canary.

Third Victim Dies Of Gas Poisoning

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—William McSweeney, the third victim of gas poisoning in the research laboratories of the Standard Oil Company, at Rahway, N. J., died here in a hospital. He became so violent that he had to be placed in a straight jacket before death. Other of the victims are affected the same way. One man who died earlier jumped fro ma second story window while in pain from the effects of the gas.

St. Mary's Guild serves Hallowe'en supper tonight, St. Mary's Sunday School room.

The Junior League of the M. E. church south will give a Hallowe'en social at the Kentenva hall tonight at 7:30.

Hallowe'en Party Friday Night

The Epworth League of the first Methodist church will give a Hallowe'en party Friday night at 7:30 at the League rooms. All members are invited to attend in Hallowe'en costume.

Epworth League Hallowe'en Party

Members of the Epworth League of The M. E. Church South had a very enjoyable time at the Hallowe'en party which was given Tuesday evening October 28, at the church and at Kentenva hall

The guests assembled at the church where they were given a physical examination by a board of medical doctors and chiropractors in order to discover whether they were physically sound to enjoy the festivities of the evening Some were found to be slightly disabled and these were given huge red pills to cure their ailments. From the church the party proceeded in single file to Kentenva hall Here they were greeted by a chamber of horrors This was lined with ghosts who gave every one the clammy hand shake. A thunder and lightning storm added to the horror of the dreadful night

One of the novelties of the program of entertainment was six fortune telling booths These consisted of a fish pond where one might fish ones future lot, another offered a photograph of future mates and then there was the wheel of fortune, the magic coffee, the candle blowing contest and other tricks of the mystic art

One of the most original and entertaining stunts of the evening was a ghost parade of famous characters in history and fiction. Sampson with his shorn locks was present and the gallant Sir Walter Raleigh and Queen Elizabeth paraded before the assembled guests Peter Pan was there with his lute not to mention Diogenes with his search warrant for an honest man It is reported that he did not have any better success last night than he did in the dark ages. Eve with half gnawed apple was there as was also George Washington with his hardware and Teddy Roosevelt was on hand with his big stick.

The refreshments consisted of pumpkin pie, coffee, sandwiches and pickles

Moss Home Is Destroyed By Fire

The home of Frank Moss at Corbin was burned to the ground early Wednesday morning Mr. Moss, the electrician for the Louisville and Nashville, was alone at the time the fire broke out. His wife and children were visiting at the home of H. E Ball in Middlesboro. Mr. Moss had a narrow escape as the bed was afire when he awakened. The bed where the children usually slept was all afire and the flames were raging through the rooms. The cause of the fire is traced to defective wiring. The fire started in the attic and swept to the foundation. A small amount of insurance was carried. Mr Moss is well known here being related to Mrs. Tom Evans, Mrs Avent and Mrs. Arthur Gent

CHURCH TO HOLD UNIQUE SESSION

Old Fashioned "Antique Prayer Meeting" Will Be Held Tonight at M. E. Church, South.

Ever hear of an Antique Prayer Meeting? There is a type of religious activity that is almost extinct—the Methodist Class Meeting. In these meetings the members of the church would gather, and behind locked doors would relate their experiences, their trials, their personal victories, and would partake of bread and water in token of brotherly love Aside from the locked doors the custom still obtains in the Annual Conference of the Methodist church. The doors are usually barred on these occasions by people who are unable to enter because of the crowd.

Such a type of old fashioned class meeting barring the barred doors, will be held tonight at the M E Church, South. Mr J. R Event will give an historical sketch of the class meeting of the early Methodist times, and the pastor, Dr J E. Savage, will speak on the present Methodist plan of the class meeting. This will be followed by personal experiences of the members tellings when and under what circumstances they began the Christian life

Bible reading is receiving special attention Some of the members are reading the Bible through consecutively, searching for the "best" verse in each book Tonight the pastor will explain the Book of Numbers.

Any one having books on religious subjects published during the early days of Methodism is requested to bring them for exhibition.

HENRY FORD'S DEARBORN INDEPENDENT

the people and presently became adopted among the principles of the older parties. It represented an educational propaganda through political methods, and naturally, with prohibition adopted, the prohibition party was left without its biggest fighting issue.

The fate of the Bull Moose attempt to float a third party taught us two things: first, that an individual's candidacy is not sufficient basis for a party, however useful and popular that individual may be This is not due, as many think, to the lack of political organization in such a movement, but to the ingrained desire of our people to vote on principles. That the Bull Moose party was launched solely in the interests of one man was proved by the facility with which that man deserted it when it failed to advance his political fortunes

The second lesson that movement and its failure taught the country, is that there is always a third party in the two older ones. Mr. Bryan discovered that it was not sufficient to be the nominee of the Democratic party; it was necessary also to be representative of the mind of that party. He failed of election because the always available third party, consisting of the Independent Vote in both parties, swung to his various opponents. There is a third party, but it operates as a check and balance within the two major parties

An illustration of this may be found in the experience of Woodrow Wilson Though a Democrat, the nominee of the then minority party, he was chosen for the presidency No one pretends to believe that it was the Democratic party vote that elected him; it was the vote of the forward looking men in all the parties that came to his assistance The always available third party in both the older parties chose him as its leader.

Since that time numerous attempts have been made to inaugurate a third party movement in presidential elections, all of them meeting with failure Observers of these attempts have noted that in every instance, since Roosevelt's Bull Moose failure, the third party movement has been captured by the extreme radical element. Whether to prevent Americans from coming together in a sanely progressive political movement, or deliberately to gain respectable patronage for their program, the fact remains the same; they have captured, and by their capture have destroyed all third-party movements up to the time when they were able to induce Senator La Follette to become their presidential candidate Senator La Follette is therefore not leading the American third party element, but the element which up to this time has succeeded in smothering legitimate third party movements

The question is pertinent, Where is the true third party element in the present campaign? The answer is that Calvin Coolidge is leading it

It was common talk when Mr Coolidge was governor of Massachusetts that the politicians were against him The group that controlled political affairs in New England has always looked upon him with suspicion. Politically Coolidge has always gone 'alone, afoot and across lots." As vice president his scrupulous regard for the properties of his place was interpreted as indicating an inconsequential nature. Everybody remembers what opinion the politicians held of him after he was suddenly thrust into the presidency One has only to turn back to the newspapers of comparatively recent date to read the master politicians of his party openly saying that he could not and should not be nominated to succeed himself. He was 'colorless," they said.

Then the country was awakened by the plain American courage of this man who, in a series of vetoes which no self seeker would have dared to make, showed a straightforward type of thought and action which was ,to say the least, refreshingly different. He had convictions he had courage, he took his stand on the broadest basis of the country's good, he led the timid through a difficult period And whenever he spoke to the people the overtone of absolute honesty was in all he said.

So it has come about that people of every political persuasion are saying all over the country and with increasing emphasis; "That man is our president" His character has penetrated the national mind. Other candidates stand where they were or are receding in the public estimate; this man alone is growing. And is it only in the Republican mind that he is growing? No: he grows everywhere in the American mind All believe in him, radical and conservative. They have a feeling that he is not the creature of any group and therefore not the servant of any.

Thus we have have witnessed in this unpromising day a candidate for the presidency who never had to climb into any political bandwagon. And if the politicians are busy scrambling for places in the Coolidge column it is because they have seen the handwriting on the wall. The candidate whom the wiseacres rejected has become the choice of the country.

It is well worth while to keep in mind these facts about third parties and also to decide who best deserves the name of "progressive"—the Coolidge support, or the Coolidge opposition.

ed his rank in war, fighting in the world conflict first as a captain in the British Army and later as a major in the 26th U. S. Infantry of which he subsequently became lieutenant colonel He was wounded in action and holds several decorations.

The parallel between father and son extends to personality Frank W. Mondell, former representative from Wyoming, who accompanied the nominee on part of his tour of the state, said Colonel Roosevelt's mannerisms and appearance reminded him constantly of the late president. He has the Roosevelt smile, the Roosevelt face and the Roosevelt voice. One of the newspaper correspondents with the Roosevelt party on its whirlwind tour of the state, a man who stumped with T. R, Sr., in 1898 said he could close his eyes while the candidate spoke and readily imagine that the leader of the Rough Riders was in action once more.

But Colonel Roosevelt has frequently reminded his hearers that he does not want them to vote for him 'simply because of who my father was" He asks their support on the basis of his own ability.

Both Governor Smith and Colonel Roosevelt have made extensive tours of the state. The Republican candidate's however was the more ambitious, for he made a3 week's trip covering all sections

"Praying Colonels" To Meet Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky, Oct 30—(AP)—The University of Kentucky football team and Centre College Colonels meet Saturday in the annual classh to determine the championship of the state. Centre has held the championship the last eight years

Both teams have suffered one defeat. Centre lost to West Virginia in New York last Saturday while State bowed its head before Washington and Lee recently. These are their only defeats. The Wildcats outwitted the Universits of Louisville, Georgtown and Sewanee colleges.

Centre's total point score is 56 to 13 in three games. State has 85 to 10 in four fraye

Anticipation of a large crowd was met today with erection of the temporary bleachers at the west end of Stoll field while six sections of the new statium, holding 10,000 persons, have been completed.

last session of congress. LaFollette gave no aid to the proposal of Senator Norbeck of South Dakota for and in promooting diversification. He fought other relief measures.

"If the farmers obtained no relief legislation from last congress, Senator LaFollette and his cohorts were more responsible than anyone else. Everyone knows of the LaFollette congressional black list. More than 100 republican congressmen who voted for both labor and farm measures are marked for defeat on his list. There are 36 democrat congressmen who fought the Immigration bill which was desired by laobr organizations, who are also blacklisted It is plain that LaFollette seeks only control of the next congress.

"LaFollette talks about lower freight rates on agricultural products and at the same time prates about higher wages for railway employes. He fails to explain how this economic miracle is to be brought about. LaFollette is making a class appeal. We believe it has already failed.

"The entire socialist third party appeal has been bunk. It was designed to fool the people It has been exposed. The presidential nominee of that party is winding up his campaign He is not talking issues set forth in his platform He is trying to forget them. He is making a violent attack upon the president of the United States. His tactics ar ethose of a desperate and defeated candidate.

"We are confident of victory on November 4 because of our faith in the intelligence of the American electorate. Calvin Coolidge is certain to be overwhelmingly elected when the voters go to the polls on Tuesday.

"Y" To Adopt Co-operative Program

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 30.—(AP).—The co-operative program of the State Young Women's and Young Men's Christian Associations was urged for adoption in Kentucky by Miss Mildred Corbett of New York City secretary of the national board of the women's "Y" today in an address before the Kentucky advisory committee of the women's "Y".

She spoke at the thirteenth annual "state work dinner." Mrs. Hiram Roseberry, Paris, chairman of the committee, introduced Miss Corbett.

The morning program covered reports of committee members on national town committee meetings national girl reserve committees, of the work done in Kentucky, and an address on the "Unoccupied by general state Y. M. C. A. secretary P. C. Dix.

Members of the state advisory committee reported on girls' conferences, camps, and girl reserve organization this afternoon.

"The co operative plan," Miss Corbett said in her address, "provides for two distinct organizations but a close co-ordination of program promotion, so that economy of effort, financial expenditures, with greatly extended service, results.

"In smaller communities it is possible for one building to serve effectively for the organizations, the one women and girls', the other men and boys,' through programs activities."

The state Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. in the last three years have worked together in Kentucky, members reported. Frankfort, Owensboro, and Henderson co-operatively use one building jointly for the girls and boys, it was reported.

SLIGHT DECEASE IN COAL PRODUCTION

BIG STONE GAP, Oct 30.—For week-ending October 18th the report by the Virginia Coal Operators' Association shows a decrease of nearly 8,000 tons under that of the previous week, in the coal fields of Southwest Virginia. Practically the same amount of coke was manufactured, however, during the past week, the report showing 8,003 tons were manufactured, or increase of 40 tons. The average weekly production of coal mined to date is 158,330 tons, average for the same period in 1923 being 186,731 tons.

ARE YOU COMMITTING THIS CRIME AGAINST YOUR HEALTH

An enormous number of people are weak, nervous and ailing, always complaining and doctoring, simply because they have committed the great American crime against their health — because while indoor life, overwork and improper diet have exhausted the iron from their blood, making it thin, pale and watery, they have made no effort to replace this iron which the blood must have to keep them well and strong.

You can easily determine, whether you have been committing this crime. You can get more iron by eating plenty of spinach, lentils and green vegetables. But doctors always advise people who are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down to take iron in concentrated form—organic iron. Nuxated Iron is organic iron like the iron in your own blood and like that in spinach and green vegetables. It is entirely different from the mineral iron used in the past, for it is readily assimilated and so acts much more quickly and surely. Besides, it doesn't injure the teeth or disturb the stomach. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be equal to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half dozen baked apples. Millions of people have used it to quickly help make rich red blood, and give increased strength, energy and endurance.

Make this convincing test:—Get Nuxated Iron today and take it for only two weeks. You will notice a marvelous improvement in health and strength, or your money will be refunded. Sold under, this absolute guarantee by all good druggists. Adv.
